SAYS INDEPENDENCE OF POUND STERLING TO BE MAINTAINED

Chancellor of Exchequer Tells London Bankers of Britain's Trade Improvement—Explains Equalization Fund—Optimistic of Continued Improvement—Advocates Central Banks

LONDON, Oct. 2 (CP-AP).—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, tonight, laid before a gathering of London bankers evidence that Great Britain's trade has improved, and assured them that the independence of sterling would be maintained.

"I will say for the umpteenth time," he said at the annual dinner of the bankers of the City of London, "that the exchange equalization account was founded for the purpose of ironing out excessive fluctuations in the value of our currencies."

The Chancellor said he had frequently declared the policy of His Majesty's Government in this connection "without, I am afraid, succeeding always in convincing the people across the seas."

Ready to See World Series

If preparedness means anything, these two lads, shown lined up for world series bleacher seats at Navin Field, Detroit, ought to enjoy the annual baseball classic. They are Bill Cunningham, left, of Kansas City, and Art Fisch, of Milwaukee. As soon as Detroit clinched the pennant, Cunningham and Fisch took their posts.

Kingsford-Smith Withdraws From Airplane Race

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 3 (AP).—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, noted Australian aviator, withdrew today from the England-to-Australia air race. After starting a flight to England he discovered defects in his machine which he was unable to repair in time to arrive for the start on October 10.

LABOR NEVER TO AID WAR

Party Will Call Special Convention in Case Britain Involved

SOUTHPORT, Eng., Oct. 2 (CP-AP).—In the event of war involving Britain, or immediate threat of war, the Labor Party will call a special convention to determine Labor's attitude.

The annual conference of the party reached this conclusion today, after rejecting a proposal advanced by pacifists that Labor should be bound to call a general strike if war threatened.

CONVINCING SUPREMACY
Earlier, the moderates convincingly showed their supremacy over the extremists within the party, when a series of amendments to the draft platform, which would have called for immediate radical Socialist steps by a future Labor Government, were rejected on a card vote of 2,146,000 to 206,000.

On the war and peace resolutions, Arthur Henderson, general secretary of the party and president of the World Disarmament Conference, explained that "never will Labor agree that Britain herself should resort to war or to help any other nation commit that crime."

"If any government should ever seek to involve Britain in war," he added, "it would be opposed by the whole Labor movement."

EXPRESS SATISFACTION
The party approved a resolution expressing deep satisfaction at the entry of Russia to the League of Nations. Mr. Henderson declared the entry was motivated by a desire to maintain peace.

The radical Socialist resolution which was offered by Sir Stafford Cripps, leader of the left wing, would have had Labor change the whole existing basis of production and distribution in the United Kingdom. It included steps to socialize the means of production, and to place land entirely in the hands of the Government.

POWERLESS TO SAVE CHILDREN
Two Burn to Death When Parents at Work on Clearing

ABBOTSFORD, B.C., Oct. 2 (CP).—Spirits from burning stumps are believed to have been responsible for the deaths of Abraham John Stobbs' two children, Helen, four, and Jacob, two, who were burned to death yesterday, when fire destroyed the Stobbs' barn and lean-to shack, near here.

Dr. J. M. McDiarmid, coroner, and members of the Provincial Police force conducted an inquiry into the tragedy, today.

According to police, Stobbs and his wife left the dwelling about 1:30 p.m. to continue land clearing operations on their small farm. The children were asleep.

About 4 p.m. Stobbs happened to look in the direction of the home and saw it enveloped in flames. Rushing about 300 yards to the shack, the father and mother tried desperately to rescue the children, but were driven back by the heat of the flames, which had spread to the barn, containing seventeen tons of hay.

The Stobbs were engaged in burning a number of stumps in the vicinity of the buildings at the time.

Dr. Perry Byerly, seismologist at the University of California at Berkeley, and Captain T. J. Maher, of the United States coast and geologic survey, said the quakes appeared purely local in nature.

The shocks were felt very lightly in San Rafael, and not reported at all from Palo Alto or Santa Cruz.

Three Killed in Road Collision

MUSCATINE, Iowa, Oct. 2 (AP).—Three members of the Nichols, Iowa, high school baseball team were killed, and three others seriously injured tonight, when a car in which they were returning from a game at Conesville, Iowa, crashed into the rear of a contractor's bunkhouse being towed on a highway near Conesville.

ALLEGED COMMUNIST EXPELLED BY COUNCIL

VANCOUVER, Oct. 2 (CP).—The Vancouver and District Trades and Labor Council tonight expelled A. Pritchett, a delegate from the Shingler Workers' Union, for alleged Communist activities and attempts to disrupt the labor organization through propaganda.

The action was taken on recommendation of the council's executive, who investigated a signed article by Pritchett appearing in a local Communist paper.

GOOD ROADS LEAGUE DEMANDS B.C. HIGHWAY COMMISSION

Minister Makes Startling Statement That Seventy-Cent Gasoline Tax Has Been Expended for Next Twenty Years and There Is No Other Money Available for Road Construction

Federal Government Will Improve Malahat Drive

KAMLOOPS, Oct. 2 (CP).—Creation of a non-political highway commission, opposition to the proposed bridge over the Fraser River, endorsement of a new scheme for financing road construction, a blanket demand for hard surfaced roads as an economy measure and specific recommendations for road construction in various parts of the province, were some of the resolutions passed at the convention of the Good Roads League of British Columbia in a lengthy one-day session today.

Hon. A. Wells Gray threw a bombshell among the seventy-five delegates when he said that "the seventy-cent gasoline tax has been expended for the next twenty years or more, and no other money is available for road construction."

DEPENDS ON OTTAWA
The Provincial Government, the minister intimated, can do nothing. "It all depends on what we get from the Federal Government in Ottawa next month," he said.

One delegate alleged that the Government had broken faith with motorists in not applying money received from the gasoline tax for construction of new roads. Quoting the late John Oliver, he said the tax is illegal and collected only by courtesy of motorists.

Hon. Mr. Gray said that revenue derived from the tax is applied to sinking funds to retire bonds outstanding for roads already in use. He added that the annual maintenance cost of $2,000,000, plus sinking fund and interest charges of $1,000,000, would be $3,000,000.

GIVE COUNCIL MORE POWER

Winnipeg Grain Exchange Anticipates Reported Move by Government on Wheat

WINNIPEG, Oct. 2 (CP).—In the face of rumors that the Canadian Government was going to take control of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, members of that market tonight had clothed their council with wider powers, so that it might, when necessary, control its own trading.

While wheat prices tumbled more than three cents in the pit, and charges by John I. McParland of questionable futures trading on the Winnipeg market echoed about the halls of Liverpool, Chicago and Ottawa, members of the exchange today were summoned for a general meeting.

DETAILS NOT REVEALED
Other than to say the council had been given greater powers to control trading, no statement was made by exchange officials following their meeting. It was understood, however, that the council had also moved toward conducting an analysis into futures dealings, so that information might be available for record.

Following a hectic day on the exchange, the lowest prices in nearly twelve weeks rule tonight for October wheat. Heavy selling by Eastern and Chicago interests pounded values as much as five cents below last night's closing prices within half an hour's trading. Government agency buying rescued the ailing prices at that point, however, and Continued on Page 2, Column 3

Andrew R. Morgan, 1300 Black, East Eleventh Avenue, alleged driver of the car, was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter by police but later released on $5,000 bail.

HAUPTMANN IS IDENTIFIED

Lumber Man Positive He Tried to Pass Gold Note Last February

TRENTON, N.J., Oct. 2 (AP).—An unknown friend of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who rushed to the aid of the Lindbergh kidnap suspect when he aroused a lumber yard man's suspicions with a $10 gold note that may have been part of the ransom money, today became the quarry of a police manhunt.

Hauptmann has been "positively identified" from a photograph by William J. Reilly, the Bronx lumber yard superintendent, as the man who tendered the gold bank note last February in payment for a forty-cent wood panel, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, State Police head, revealed.

When Reilly began to scan the gold note carefully, Schwarzkopf reported, the German carpenter's companion hurriedly said "never mind" and quickly proffered the exact change. Hauptmann, who said nothing, took back his banknote and the men left in haste, not to return as promised for delivery of the wood later in the day, Schwarzkopf related.

Linking of Hauptmann with a mysterious companion who apparently knew that the former German machine gunner was allegedly passing "hot" ransom money, headed for the day a list of developments, which included:

GOVERNOR CERTAIN
Announcement by Governor A. Harry Moore that he was satisfied from the evidence available that "we can convict" Hauptmann of a charge of murder and that New Jersey's investigations in the case would be completed "in a few days."

Disclosure by authoritative New Jersey sources that notations in a notebook found in Hauptmann's Bronx home were considered as evidence that the German carpenter was directly linked with the kidnapping.

A story in The Washington Star that two secret witnesses have shat-tered Hauptmann's alibi that he was not the "John" of the Lindbergh ransom negotiations and payment.

NEW CABINET SWORN IN
BUCHARST Oct. 2 (CP-HAV).—Rumania's new Government—with the exception of the Minister of Foreign Affairs—was sworn in tonight before King Carol at the country villa of the monarch at Sinaia.

Wireless reports to the MacKay Radio Company said that the British steamship Trematon was standing by the Alnderby, and that the Cunard liner Antonia was proceeding to the scene.

The Ropner Shipping Company, Ltd., of West Hartlepool, owners of the vessel, said that they had heard nothing from the ship since Friday, when the master wireless that an apprentice had been washed overboard during heavy weather. Efforts to save him failed, the message said.

Small Ship Wages Desperate Battle in Stormy Arctic Seas

Catholic Mission Supply Vessel Fails in Attempt to Reach Long-Isolated Priest—Crew Mans Pumps for Six Days

CHURCHILL, Man., Oct. 2 (CP).—With a gaping hole in her side and her crew suffering from exhaustion and exposure, the Catholic mission supply ship Pius XI was in port tonight with one objective—the rescue of Father H. N. Bazin—unrealized. Trapped in wild gales on her 800-mile journey to Repulse Bay, in the Arctic Circle, the little ship fought clear and returned to port after delivering supplies for the winter to mission posts in the extreme North.

Early winter squalls, freezing temperatures and icebergs prevented the Pius XI from going another 700 miles to Igloolik, where Father Bazin has been stranded for four years. Every effort to break through and bring him back to civilization has proved futile.

HOPED TO SUCCEED
The Pius XI was under command of Father Emmanuel Duplain, forty-year-old Ottawa missionary, who believed that the 1934 supply-ship would be able to get through to Igloolik and bring back Father Bazin. The stranded priest has not been heard from since early in 1933, when Kojimov said that he was still ministering to the natives in the farthest north Christian mission.

Repulse Bay was ice-bound when the Pius XI reached there. Icebergs began to surround her. Start-

SWAMPED BY SUBSCRIPTIONS

Safety-Conscious Public Are Clinging to Security of Government Bonds

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 (CP).—Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes announced tonight that the total subscription to the new refunding loan of $250,000,000 would exceed $76,000,000 at the end of the second day. This announcement added that some of the large centres were literally "swamped," not only with applications to convert, but with new orders.

Branch banks and bond dealers also reported literally thousands of applications to convert their bonds were pouring in from small investors. According to one large bond dealer said, that the public is "safety-conscious" and intends to hang on to the security of its Dominion of Canada bonds. Inasmuch as there are still probably about 100,000 of the original holders of the 1919 bonds, the work involved in getting into touch with all of them, as well as taking care of thousands of applications from investors of new money in modest amounts, is immense.

TAKING LARGE SLICE
Department officials noted an apparent desire of the people with amounts between $100 and $1,000 brackets to obtain the security of the Dominion of Canada bonds. This is more reminiscent of the Victory Loan campaign than of any of the previous war loan refunding operations. Subscriptions from large corporations are beginning to show in the totals for the second day. The Sun Life Assurance Company will subscribe for $4,000,000. This makes a total of more than $8,000,000 of Canadian Government bonds purchased this year by the Sun Life.

MUST BE TRIED FOR EXTORTION

London Magistrate Commits Two Alleged Members of Ontario Blackmail Ring

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 2 (CP).—The law's fight to break Western Ontario's alleged blackmail ring had advanced another step tonight with the commitment of Vincent T. Foley, London lawyer, and Mrs. Mae Turnbull, for trial on a charge of extortion of $1,500 from "Mr. B." and "Mr. C." after a party at a hotel at which Mrs. Turnbull and another woman were present, according to evidence.

The two alleged victims outlined details of a hotel party and described steps by which Foley and Mrs. Turnbull are alleged to have obtained the money from the two men.

EASTERN STAR'S OFFICER KILLED

Janet Naylor, of Seattle, Victim of Motor Car Accident Near Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 2 (AP).—Janet Naylor, Seattle, a grand officer of the Washington State Order of Eastern Star, was killed, and Lorraine Fiesel, of Chehalis, grand worthy matron of the organization, was injured, in an automobile accident near here today.

Their automobile went out of control and rolled eighty-five feet over an embankment on the Paradise grade, just outside the city limits. Mrs. Naylor apparently was killed instantly. Mrs. Fiesel, driver of the car, was not believed to be dangerously hurt, although her back was injured and she was taken to a hospital.

Kaslo Mine Case Appeal Book Bulky Affair—
Attorney-General Loses in Succession Duty Suit
—Minister of Finance Also Unsuccessful

VANCOUVER, Oct. 2 (CP).—Hon. Katherine Macdonald Buchanan, of Petworth, Sussex, England, and daughter of Lord Woolavington, British distiller, today lost an appeal from a Supreme Court judgment of Mr. Justice A. I. Fisher involving tax levies on her Okanagan property, the Coldstream fruit ranch, near Vernon, B.C.

Lady Katherine sued to compel the Corporation of the District of Coldstream to tax improvements, and Mr. Justice Fisher dismissed her action. Some $20,000 in taxes were owing by the ranch property, which pays 40 per cent of Coldstream's taxes and owns 80 per cent of the land within the municipality.

Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald announced that Mr. Justice A. Martin was not ready with his judgment, and Mr. Justice A. E. McPhillips judgment was not to hand. He also announced that Mr. Justice McPhillips' judgments in several cases would be withheld until his recovery from an illness.

BULKY APPEAL BOOKS

One of the largest appeal books to come before the court for many years was filed today in the case of Mrs. Minnie Mead May vs. Joseph C. Roberts and others, in an action concerning a silver-lead and zinc mine near Kaslo. Mrs. May won before Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald in Supreme Court. Each book contains 1,596 pages, divided into four volumes.

Find Ransom Money Cached in Holes

In these four holes, bored in a plank in Bruno Richard Hauptmann's garage, police found approximately $840 in bills and later identified them as part of the $20,000 Lindbergh ransom money. The money shown in the holes is not that found by police, but bills stuffed into them by photographers to show how the money was hidden. The gun, fully loaded, was found in the hole in the plank that may be seen just to the left of the holes containing the money.

BULB GROWING IS DESCRIBED

Horticultural Society Enjoys Illustrated Lecture—
Paper Is Read

An interesting series of slides, accompanied by notes, on bulb growing in Holland, was shown at last night's meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society, in the City Hall.

H. Whitlock, president, read the notes, while A. T. Shobell operated the lantern. The slides and notes were provided by the Holland Bulb Gardens, of Toronto.

The first group of slides showed various scenes in Holland of a general character, and the next group followed the bulb growing industry step by step from the planting, to weeding, harvesting, grading and shipping.

Informative information also was given with regard to the methods that various bulbs should be planted.

Mr. Whitlock also read an interesting paper dealing with rock gardens, and the various types of plants that grow under varying conditions.

The meeting was later thrown open to questions, which ranged from potato growing to various kinds of weed killers.

Frank Turner was awarded first prize in the floral exhibit, and A. D. Miln placed second. Both had beautiful chrysanthemum displays. W. R. Nichols was first in the carnation display, and A. D. Miln was second.

SAYS INDEPENDENCE TO BE MAINTAINED

Settlements, he said, "was indeed a vision and you will see if you bear patiently with the difficulties which it started, that the vision will come true."

"Its concern is to bring about the co-operation of central banks and no cause could be more altruistic and more in the interests of all of you who are in other businesses than that international object."

The Chancellor also referred appreciatively to steps taken during recent years to establish central banks within the British Empire.

This tended to promote common imperial objects and a unified monetary policy, he said.

Mr. Chamberlain made optimistic references to the expansion of British trade as revealed in export figures for the first eight months of the year, showing a jump of approximately $100,000,000 over the corresponding period of the previous year. At the same time he warned that difficulties in the way of international trade seem to be increasing.

Improvement in British trade is actually greater than the improved figures of employment would indicate, he said. He gave statistics of evidence of the improvement.

In trading production indices, comparing the second quarter of 1934 with the same period last year, in this country, textile production indices have risen from 86 to 91, chemicals from 101 to 108, engineering and shipbuilding from 97 to 119, iron and steel from 78 to 104.

Improvement elsewhere in shipbuilding and tonnage under construction has doubled, while the volume of shipping laid up has been halved, declared the Chancellor.

Retail trade in August was 5 per cent better than last year, indicating that general improvement in industry is beginning to affect the purchasing power of the people.

The programme inaugurated by the National Government, though lacking in drama and sometimes ultra-cautious, nevertheless has operated to improve economic conditions in Great Britain, he concluded.

"Unfortunately it is impossible for any one government to reopen channels of international trade of its own volition or to influence the policies of other countries which are subject to their own internal exigencies," he said.

A veiled reference to the United States and its New Deal was read.

Signalman Forgot Train, Resulting In Terrible Wreck

WARRINGTON, England, Oct. 2 (CP).—The train wreck here Saturday, which cost the lives of ten persons, resulted from a signalman "forgetting" a train. There was a dramatic moment at the inquest today when the signalman, William Blair, was being questioned. He passed his hand over his forehead, dazedly, and murmured: "I completely forgot the 8:55 from Warrington."

REPORT FINDS NOTHING WRONG

Calgary's Officials Absolved From All Blame in Administering Relief

CALGARY, Oct. 2 (CP).—All civic officials are absolved from any wrongdoing in the administration of relief in Calgary was the finding of Magistrate H. G. Scott, who recently investigated charges of alleged abuses in the handling of unemployment aid here.

In a report submitted to Mayor Andrew Davison this morning Magistrate Scott said:

"All officials are completely absolved of any charges regarding wrongdoing of any kind in the administration of married unemployed relief in the city."

The report, an eighteen-page document, exonerates the mayor, the city commissioner, aldermen and civic relief department members, all of whom had been mentioned during the inquiry when more than 100 witnesses were heard.

It had been charged that the mayor, commissioner, aldermen or officials of the relief department had protected or attempted to protect persons improperly receiving relief; had obtained relief for persons not entitled to it; had used influence, political or otherwise, to get people on relief; and that there had been a breach of duty on the part of officials in the administration of the relief department.

During the investigation a newspaper man, member of The Alberta staff, refused to divulge the source of his information on which he based newspaper stories on the relief department. After lengthy argument by counsel, he was excused from answering the questions.

At a meeting of the city council last night decision was made to continue the present scale of relief in Calgary, and it was decided to start at once a reorganization of all relief recipients. A proposal to pay relief in cash was not supported.

SEVEN KILLED IN AIR LINER CRASH
Explosion Believed to Have Caused Wreck of Plane Over English Channel

FOLKESTONE, England, Oct. 2 (AP).—A mysterious crash of an air passenger liner into the English Channel—Britain's third serious air disaster in eleven days—looked like the lives of all seven occupants were lost. The tragedy brought to fifteen the toll of dead taken by this blackest period in the history of British civil aviation.

The channel steamer Blarritz, near the scene of the crash, picked up five bodies, all badly mutilated. A theory that the liner exploded was strengthened by the condition of the bodies and the fact that the plane was broken into bits of scattered wreckage.

The air liner, en route from Romford, Essex, to Le Bourget, Paris, crashed three miles from Folkestone.

SIR NORMAN ANGELL IS EXPECTED TO WIN NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (CP).—An Oslo cable to The New York Times quotes President M. O. Olsen, of the Norwegian Peace Society, as declaring the 1934 Nobel Peace Prize probably will go to Sir Norman Angell.

Sir Norman Angell, economist, author and former member of the British Parliament, has written several books on international topics, many of them dealing directly with questions of peace and war.

OBSERVANCE PLANS MADE

Remembrance Day Parade to Cenotaph Arranged by Canadian Legion

Preliminary arrangements for Victoria's observance of Remembrance Day on Sunday, November 11, as planned by the Canadian Legion in co-operation with other ex-service organizations and patriotic bodies, were announced last night by Secretary A. C. Gill, Pro Patria branch.

Sir Percy Lake, well-known Legion official, will be approached to take charge of the annual parade to the cenotaph, it was stated.

Military and naval authorities will be invited to take part in the services with the Legion groups.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY
Tentative arrangements call for a general assembly of Legion members at the Royal Victoria Theatre promptly at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, November 11. The groups will march off from there and proceed immediately to the Legislative Buildings, where services will be conducted at the War Memorial.

Prominent church leaders and military and naval chaplains will be invited to take part in the proceedings. To assist the public in following the ceremonies, a loudspeaker system will be installed.

A committee from the District Council of the Canadian Legion is working on complete details and these will be announced within the next few days.

MINES DEPARTMENT WILL ALTER POLICY

duce the power to develop our industries, to the extent that we are not using our own coal to produce power we fail to bring back prosperity."

The Minister said the Mines Department must direct the great mining industry, and the extent to which it will give employment must be the first concern.

"The extent to which the Government shall accept responsibility in connection with mining development is a question," Mr. Pearson said. "One school of thought is that the industry is so large it can take care of itself and its own problems; another that prospectors ought to be encouraged in every way possible. All were agreed," he stated, "that inducement to prospecting should be given, and that men should be encouraged to go into the hills."

VALUE OF ROADS
The department's policy is to aid development by assisting in trail construction. Mr. Pearson said, declaring he is satisfied that three to five million dollars could be spent to good advantage building roads into mining areas. The difficulty, he said, was to get the money.

Mr. Pearson also dealt with the department's policy regarding speculation, saying one problem was how far it should go in curbing speculation.

"The department is not interested in gambling in stocks, but in speculative investment. Any man who decides to go into mining must take a change on losing. There is a difference between the man who puts money into mine development and the man who waits until the stock is on the exchange."

GIVING FAIR CHANCE
"The department proposes to give every man a chance to see that the money which goes into a mine is spent properly. Our reports must indicate what we know about a property. We cannot, of course, have a staff so large as to indicate the full possibilities of a property."

"People should be so educated that, when they buy a promotion stock they should assure themselves of what the possibilities are. They should be clear on the difference between gambling in stocks and putting money into mining development."

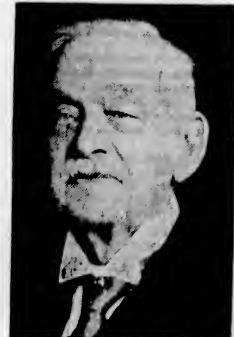

QUITO, Ecuador, Oct. 2 (AP).—President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra after only a month in office, resigned today as head of the Republic, but later agreed to withdraw his resignation.

News of the original action was met here and at Guayaquil with enormous excitement and the beginning of disorders. Citizens eagerly snatched up extra editions of newspapers and began running through the streets shouting "viva" for Ibarra.

LIGHT SYSTEM TAMPERED WITH

Daniel Franklin Enters Plea of Guilty—Judgment in Case Reserved

In the city police court yesterday morning, Deputy Police Magistrate Alexis Martin heard evidence in a charge laid against Daniel Franklin under the Dominion Act which makes it an offence to tamper with electric light wires whereby the reading of the meter is falsified. The minimum fine under the act is $50.

The information was laid by S. A. Shrimpton, inspector of electric energy. In this case, the loser of electric current was the B.C. Electric Company. A. D. King, solicitor of that company, prosecuted.

The accused pleaded guilty to the offence, but offered the explanation that he thought that he had been unfairly dealt with by the company, which had cut off his electric current when he was owing simply $9.05. He had agreed to pay something on account and did pay $3, a day later than he agreed to do so. In view of the fact that he had a deposit of $3 with the company, he said he really only owed $3.05. He was out of work and had had sickness.

COMPANY'S CASE

Officials of the company testified to having cut off the electricity at the meter. Later they had found the house of the accused lighted, and on investigation had discovered that a connection had been effected from the porch light to the company wire leading to the meter. This had been cut by the company under the agreement entered into as it was a menace to life and property.

The deputy magistrate expressed the opinion that the penalty provided for was out of all proportion to the offence.

Mr. King suggested that the danger which attended making such connections must be borne in mind. He also said that the accused had been guilty of similar actions in making connections illegally in other houses which he occupied.

DISCUSSES PENALTY

The court asked Mr. King what penalty he suggested and also what he might suggest in the way of what should be done in case of default. Could the court allow suspended sentence in such a case, he asked, or would the offender have to be sent to jail.

Mr. King said that the company he represented did not want to be vindictive. All he could offer as a suggestion was that the act be followed. He did not know that anything else could be done.

The deputy magistrate agreed that amateurs should not be allowed to tamper with wires. He felt that he should take time to look into the act and accordingly adjourned the case until Thursday of next week when he would give judgment.

BANQUET HELD BY FISHERMEN

Members of Chinook Club Enjoy First Annual Function at Douglas Hotel

Between twenty and twenty-five members of the Chinook Club of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association attended the first annual banquet, Monday evening, at the Douglas Hotel. Dr. Hugh Clarke, president of the association, presided.

The thrills of hooking a button fish and gaining membership in the Chinook Club was related in turn by the members, who told some great "fish stories." George L. Warren, who hooked a fifty-three-pound tye, recently, at Campbell River, to gain membership in the Tye Club of British Columbia, was a guest of the association. Mr. Warren recited in almost perfect detail, how he caught the fish that won him the gold button and brought him "one of the proudest moments of his life."

Before becoming a member of the Chinook Club and being able to wear the button of this organization, it is necessary to hook a twenty-pound salmon. More than forty anglers have already won their way to membership in this popular club.

During the banquet, Jack Townsend, local vocalist, rendered selections, while the members later joined in community singing, led by Charlie Clarke. Bob Townsend acted as accompanist.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. W. H. Currie, Queens Avenue; Mrs. R. Sharp, Vancouver, and Mrs. W. McLeay, in Scotland, and one son, Thomas, Victoria.

Rev. James Hood will officiate at funeral services, to be conducted, Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

FREIGHT RATE HEARING ENDED

Railway Commission Given Arguments for and Against Reduction to B.C.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 (CP).—The Railway Commission yesterday concluded its hearing into the application of the Fraser Valley Surrey Farmers' Co-operative Association for a reduction on the domestic freight rate from Prairie points to British Columbia on grain and grain products. The association was represented by Thomas Reid, M.P., for New Westminster, who also acted as spokesman for the British Columbia Government.

Associated with Dr. Reid in presenting the request was A. L. Chard, freight rates expert of the Alberta Government. The application was opposed by the railways, headed by E. F. Flintoff for the Canadian Pacific and Ivan C. Rand for the Canadian National.

CHARGES COMBINE

Argument of the proponents of the reduction was, in the main, that a lowered freight rate on grain products for domestic consumption on the Pacific Coast would stimulate the poultry industry and would also encourage co-operatives to establish their own milling facilities. Mr. Reid today charged that there existed a milling combine to which, he said, the railways were accessories.

Against this the railways contended that the present was no time for such action as would affect railway revenues detrimentally. An agreement had been reached last year, which gave a 30 per cent per hundredweight rate on wheat-bound grain to the Prairies. This should be given a chance to operate for a reasonable period before applications for further reduction were considered, railways counsel contended.

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m., and from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a.m., from 12:15 to 2:15 p.m., and from 9:15 to 11:15 p.m.

Avoid any entangling alliances in business or social affairs on this date, for complications might follow that probably would prove embarrassing. Business transactions involving engineering or architectural planning, to be successfully handled, will require the greatest amount of care to be exercised in explaining what are ordinarily considered insignificant details, for a competitor may have unduly stressed importance to small points usually disregarded. Money may be available in satisfactory amounts for worthy enterprises. In trade transactions refrain from mincing words, for plain speech may prevent misunderstandings. There might be a possibility of important papers being mislaid, so caution is advised. Social activities may prove inductive to some one indulging in a lot of small talk in which, by insinuation, reflection may be cast on a mutual friend's actions. If you are wise you will refrain from expressing yourself. Married and engaged couples, as well as suitors, may avoid complications if they are careful not to exaggerate any commonplace happenings.

If a woman and October 3 is your birthday, do not allow your good nature to be imposed upon through the fear of offending people. If you

Tom Cockrill Found Not Guilty of Attempting to Pervert Course of Justice

VANCOUVER, Oct. 2 (CP).—Tom Cockrill, fifty-nine-year-old Whonnock farmer and former operative for the Richmond police, was acquitted by an Assize Court jury, tonight, on a charge of attempting to pervert the course of justice.

The jury deliberated an hour and fifteen minutes. Cockrill had been charged with attempting to persuade Edward Tufts to withdraw an appeal from a liquor conviction and to give King's evidence against Bert Handley, Royal Canadian Mounted Police operative. The charge also stated that Cockrill had told Tufts if he withdrew his appeal and paid the fine of $500 that the money would be refunded, but that if he refused he would be arrested for perjury.

ADVISES MAKING STUDY OF INDIA

Mrs. D. M. Duncan Gives Kiwanis Club Information Relative to People of East

Expressing the hope that her address before the members of the Kiwanis Club might have the effect of awakening a desire on the part of her hearers to make a more complete study of that country, Mrs. D. M. Duncan gave an interesting introduction to life in the Indian Empire, at the luncheon meeting of the club, yesterday.

The book "Caste and Outcast," was recommended by the speaker as a good one to read by anyone wanting to get the Brahmin's viewpoint. The reader obtained a picture of the life lived by the Brahmins and the writer's interpretation of American and Canadian life was as exaggerated as was one's ideas of Indian life obtained by reading "Mother India," Mrs. Duncan said.

Mrs. Duncan has come to Victoria to take over the position of headmistress of St. Margaret's School. Ten years ago she spent fourteen months in India, covering in large part various sections of the country. The political agitations were just commencing when she was there.

STUDIED LANGUAGE
The languages of India interested her very much and Mrs. Duncan, during her stay there, made a point of studying the Hindustani language, which is understood by the ordinary residents of all parts of the Empire, which, however, has many different languages. Sanskrit is the classic language, which is understood by the learned sections of the land, just as Latin is among the learned in Europe.

The speaker gave some interesting facts connected with her learning of the language and with regard to the various classes met with in the country. Among the lower coolie classes she found a cheerful and philosophical disposition, although the lot of them might be far from desirable as they lived a miserable existence.

The salutation met with in India, "Namaste," indicated something of the mental and moral attitude of the people towards life.

WORKING FOR SAFE STREETS

Police Chief Heatley Asks Co-operation of Motorists and Pedestrians

Pointing out that the majority of accidents in the city are due to carelessness and lack of consideration, and can be avoided in many cases, if the motoring public will take heed to the simple rules and regulations, Police Chief Thomas Heatley is appealing to Victorians to co-operate with the police department in its Safety Week campaign, which will begin on October 9.

Only through the co-operation of everyone can this drive for safety be successful, the chief declares. Throughout the week, constables will be busy teaching the rules of safety to motorists, pedestrians and school children. Brake testing will also be conducted under the supervision of Sergeant Benjamin Acreman.

SLOWER DRIVING

Chief Heatley and Inspector J. T. Boulton, during the week will instruct Victoria drivers in the proper manner of crossing intersections without endangering the lives of pedestrians. The chief believes accidents at intersections could be reduced considerably if drivers would look to the right and left before crossing, and when proceeding across busy centres they should have their feet ready to clamp on the brakes. Hereafter, any motorist who drives in a reckless manner at intersections and speeds through them will be severely dealt with, Chief Heatley warns, as this practice is nothing less than "driving to the common danger."

Much confusion often arises in the downtown area due to some motorists failing to drive in the middle lane of traffic when anticipating a left-hand turn. Often drivers who intend to make a left-hand turn will drive close to the curb when the intersection is reached they find it necessary to cut directly in front of traffic lanes, the chief said.

DISPLAYS PLACARDS

During Safety Week, large placards giving pointers on the proper methods of driving and giving hand signals will be displayed by police cars at the intersections of Douglas and Yates Streets and Blanshard and Yates Streets.

Police officers will be stationed near schools to give safety talks to the children, and Sergeant Arthur H. Bishop will give children further instruction within the schools after school hours.

Every effort to make Victoria "safety conscious" will be made by Chief Heatley and his department during the week, and the chief is asking that motorists do their part.

A REFUNDING LOAN

The piling up of governmental debts beyond the ability to liquidate them when they become due has led to lower interest rates on loans launched for refunding purposes. The whole tendency in modern finance is cheaper money. The latest Federal Government's refunding loan has been launched at varying rates of interest ranging from 2.57 per cent to 3.81 per cent, according to the life of the bonds. These rates, the Minister of Finance explains, are not fixed in any arbitrary way, but reflect the current rate of money in the security markets of the Dominion. The loan in the aggregate is for $250,000,000, and the first few days' subscriptions indicate that the money sought will be forthcoming. The money for investment is available in large quantities in the country. The records of all savings institutions show this. That money is looking for gilt-edged securities, and the refunding loan is nothing if not such.

The present Government at Ottawa has done a good task in its refunding processes which have already saved the country $9,000,000 a year in interest payments. The new loan will add a saving of some $5,000,000 annually in this particular. That is one reason that will render it popular among investors. Premier Bennett appeals to small investors on the grounds of personal interest and national service, and there are indications his advice in this respect is being followed. The steady recovery in economic conditions will prove an encouragement to investment, for there is no doubt that in its financial policies the Federal Government has been a factor in overcoming the forces of depression. The response to the loan on the opening days is most satisfactory.

CHINESE EASTERN RAILWAY

A cause of possible disagreement between Japan and Russia has been wiped out with the successful negotiation for the purchase by the former of the Russian share in the Chinese Eastern Railway. This railway was constructed following an arrangement made in 1896, when China gave permission to Russia to cut through Manchuria with the Trans-Siberian Railway so as to reach the Pacific Coast by a shorter distance. The original intention was that in the railway only Russians and Chinese should be shareholders, and the Chinese Government was to have the right to purchase the line outright at the end of thirty-five years.

In 1905, following the Russo-Japanese War, Japan acquired the South Manchurian Railway, and since then that country has been striving to secure all of the railway line inside of Manchurian territory. New pressure in this direction was brought to bear when the new State of Manchukuo was created. Japan has succeeded, and with the turning over to her of the Chinese Eastern Railway she will have traffic control from the western border of Manchukuo to the ports of Vladivostok and Dairen. This gives Japan two lines from the sea to Harbin and one clear line from Harbin to the western border of Manchukuo. In case of trouble with Russia this traffic control would prove of immense value. Moreover, it is of significance in case any further operations against China should develop.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S RADIO ADDRESS

In Mr. Roosevelt's recent radio message from the White House there was a passage which may arouse controversy, namely, the parallel he undertook to draw between the principles underlying the New Deal and those which have guided British financial policy. It would seem that some person or persons have been asking Mr. Roosevelt to explain the fact that the United Kingdom has made great strides towards economic recovery and good times, while as everyone knows, prosperity in the United States is still to be achieved. In effect, Mr. Roosevelt says that American prosperity cannot be far away, because the policies of the two countries have been much alike, particularly during the two years or so since Mr. Roosevelt has been in power.

The tone of Mr. Roosevelt's address was just on the border of querulousness, a circumstance which may be due to the vigor of the attacks which the Republicans are making upon him and his New Deal. He conveyed the impression of a man on the defensive, and somehow the logic of the defence, however clearly set out in the cold light of reason, is never quite as effective as the barbed logic of the attack, made more formidable by the driving force of passion which inspires it. Nor are the points of similarity in the two policies, stressed by Mr. Roosevelt, quite convincing.

One point was that both countries are off the gold standard. That is true, but Mr. Roosevelt made no mention of the very important fact that Great Britain was driven off against her will, whereas the United States, with huge quantities of gold in her treasury vaults and therefore acting under no compulsion whatever, deliberately chose to abandon gold for reasons of expediency. President Roosevelt, not yielding to circumstances which were too strong for him but in the full enjoyment of the freedom of his own will, decided to do something with a view to raising the price level of commodities. To this end he abandoned the gold standard and devalued the dollar by 41 per cent. There is not much in common between these two policies.

Mr. Roosevelt asked his audience if Great Britain had not taken steps to reduce the interest on government bonds. Having gone so far as to ask this question, the President should have gone a step farther and made it clear how the British Government was able to do this. His audience would have been interested to learn that the reduction of interest on British bonds was not the arbitrary act of a government tampering with the country's financial system to the injury of the public creditor. The British Government simply adjusted itself to one of the conditions of the original loan, namely, that at the discretion of the Government the bonds might be called in on a certain day. This was done, and a new set of bonds was offered to the public at a lower rate of interest. It was eagerly subscribed by the public, and the credit of the Government stood, if possible, higher than before. The British taxpayer was relieved of a considerable burden. The chief difference between the financial policies of the two countries at the moment is that in the United States an attempt is being made to operate a planned economy under the direction of a brain trust.

QUEBEC'S NEXT ELECTION

Quebec is preparing for a general election next year. It is the practice in that Province to hold an election every four years. No Government there is willing to continue in office for the full term, allowed, and probably that is an instance of realization that governments which wish to eke out the full term allowed so frequently go down to defeat. The Quebec Legislature, since 1897, has never met for longer than four years. In that Legislature at present there are 77 Liberals, 11 Conservatives and 2 Independent Liberals. Two of the Conservatives, Mr. Guertin, of Hull, and Mr. Barre, of Rouville, have broken with the official leadership of Mr. Duplessis and are active in a third party movement. The moving spirit in that movement is Mr. R. L. Calder, who successfully managed the campaign which led to the election of Mr. Camille Houde as Mayor of Montreal.

It may be doubted if the prestige of Mr. Taschereau, the Premier of Quebec, has weakened at all in recent years. His return to power should be automatic. It is possible that because of political unrest, which is evident everywhere, his majority will be curtailed, but his political enemies are divided more than in the past, which should enhance the prospects of a Liberal success. It is a paradox of the lengthy Liberal regime in Quebec that it has been conservative measures which have consolidated this tenure of office.

LESSONS OF TRAGEDY

It was inevitable that the tragedy which overcame the Morro Castle should lead to criticism of the character of furnishings aboard modern passenger liners. It is not only the burning of the Morro Castle that has drawn attention to the inflammable character of these furnishings, but the Atlantic and Georges Philippar disasters as well. In modern liners there seems to be a demand for light woods for decorative purposes, and these burn more rapidly than the oak which was formerly used. There is also a demand for long promenades and large public rooms, which make it more difficult to localize a blaze, because, in spacious apartments and in a high breeze, a fire spreads rapidly at sea.

The Morro Castle tragedy will also lead to more rigid regulations affecting boat drill. It is undoubted, as The London Spectator points out, that on pleasure cruises there is too casual an attitude towards passengers in making them turn up with their lifebelts, at the appointed boat station. Possibly it was slackness in this particular which led to such heavy loss of life on the Morro Castle. In any case new regulations seem desirable, or a considerable tightening up of the regulations that exist.

PATCHWORK QUILT

Here's all of Summer folded on a bed,
With plaits of grass and dewy garden flowers,
Bright daisy-tuffs, and roses garlanded,
And golden buds from honeysuckle bowers:
Here's vanished color strung upon a thread
Between whose level boundaries are seen
Victorian russet, Georgian damask red,
And stars and moons of gentle Regency green.

Here's all the tale of many lifetimes told:

Was Lydia's wedding-gown; the band of gold
Was worn by Deborah when she ran away;

And this brown print was Aunt Polixia's sleeves.
Pitiful, lovely, ludicrous world outspread:
Here's English history folded on a bed.

Pondering over the mysterious case of the Forgotten Man calls to mind the late pursuit of the Elusive Atom. Readers of the newspapers will remember that a short time ago many speculative physicists were chasing the Elusive Atom and telling of the wonders which would be wrought after they had rounded up the mysterious abstraction, split it or smashed it, and released the tremendous energy latent in it. Learned professors in the United States, and at least one of the profound fraternity in England, claimed that they had arrested and confined the Atom, and would split it or smash it as soon as they had perfected some mysterious machine powerful enough to perform the operation.

But the common people were solemnly warned that the learned researchers and investigators would not be responsible for the results of their experiments. They said it was possible to release the forces confined within the Atom, but it was impossible and foolhardy to make the mysterious force would do after it was released. They said it might shatter the earth and annihilate the laws which governed the movements of the various bodies of the physical universe. The Atom today appears to be a forgotten thing. The blood of the common people no longer runs cold nor the flesh of the credulous people creep when stories are printed in the newspapers about the dire consequences of the explosion of the Atom.

Were the learned physicists merely modern charlatans making a living by "pulling the legs" of the public after the manner of the times in other spheres of activity, such as politics and economics? We do not know. We shall never know, unless the Atom should come back from the bottomless realms into which it has fallen and be captured by a real professor of applied science. In considering this mystery of the Atom, however, we must not forget one claim made for it. That claim was that the energy of the Atom, if it could be released and harnessed, might be applied to turning the wheels of industry in all parts of the earth and effecting a really fundamental revolution in the affairs of men.

It is characteristic of men that if they are not chasing abstract things like the Atom, they will be running after something else equally abstract, such as phantoms of the imagination or immaterial things like sunbeams. We shall probably be told by some learned physicist that sunbeams are not so immaterial as they look; that in them are the materials solid things are made of. There are said to have been times when tried men's souls. We have encountered times which seem to have upset men's judgment. We do not remember for the moment the name of the oracle who said men might safely walk with their heads in the clouds provided they kept their feet firmly on the ground. It seems to us that men in some parts of the world have been walking with their heads in the clouds and their feet dangling in the air. The fact that the sun is shining behind the clouds does not change the conditions upon the earth. If the men with their heads among the clouds were endowed with miraculous powers they might order the mists to dissipate and the sun of prosperity to shine upon their particular part of the earth; but, if there were an age of miracles, it is past, and theorists and speculators are faced with facts.

So let the economic charlatans chase phantoms if they will; but let the practical statesmen and economists of Canada keep their feet upon the ground and be guided by the experience of other nations and their own common sense. There are solid forces in action which, if let alone, will bring renewed business activity and increased prosperity to the people of this country. The goal we have in view cannot be reached by short cuts or daring experiments.

About a year ago the public men of Canada were subjected to great temptation. Some of them were disposed to yield to the tempter. The leader of the government was criticised by leaders of the opposition for not following the example of the government of the United States. The critics said the New Deal was at least an indication that President Roosevelt was "trying to do something," while the government of Canada was inert and was not trying to do anything. The government of the United States has done many things, and after doing those things is trying to do something else. Thus far all the daring experiments have failed. Is there any indication that the latest experiments will prove successful? The President has delivered another exhortation, in which may be detected a note of despair. But Mr. Roosevelt cannot admit that he

THE PRICE OF LIBERTY

Sir,—A short time ago, your columnist, R.B.D., quoting that famous saying, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," attributed it to the American patriot, Jefferson. A few days later, a shocked correspondent wrote me, "The price of liberty, said Mill, is eternal vigilance."

Actually, the credit must go to the Irish patriot, John Philpot Curran, who first proclaimed the idea in a speech delivered in 1790, and in a later speech (1808), crystallized it into the brilliant epigram which we all admire, but too seldom heed—as witness the general indifference to the spectacle of a City Council poking an inquisitorial nose into the domestic affairs of its employees.

Maple Bay Show—The Avelia left this morning with a number of excursionists for the Maple Bay show. She will proceed to Nanaimo tomorrow morning and mail for that place, returning to Maple Bay tomorrow morning with excursionists. In the evening she will be back to Nanaimo, leaving that place on Sunday morning for this city.

Caved In—The mouth of the Black Canyon tunnel, on the C.P.R., at the other side of Spencer's Bridge, caved in last week, bringing down about 3,000 or 4,000 cubic yards of rock and earth. The caving will require the construction seriously, as it will take several weeks to remove the mass for the laying of rails.

An Explosion—After the sham fight at Beacon Hill, some little boys found a few cartridges which they took home and put in a bottle. Into the bottle, they thrust a piece of paper, lighted. An explosion followed, and one of the little fellows was severely burned in the face, and has since been confined to the house.

Results of Essay Competition on World Day for Animals Made Public—To Present Awards

The judges announce the results of the essay contest "Why we should be kind to animals and celebrate World Day for them." The excellence of most of the contributions made the task very difficult. Eighteen contestants were disqualified because they did not comply with the rules. Two were over age and sixteen omitted names, addresses, or ages. Particular credit is given to the Prospect Lake and Cloverdale schools, and the contestants showed that their school and home training are well in accord with the ideals of the celebration.

TRAFFIC SIGNALS

Sir,—There seems to be quite a controversy taking place in the press just now regarding automatic signals for our traffic control. Speaking from one viewpoint, this seems to be quite humorous, as, for one, we have policemen enough to handle our traffic, and I am sure none of them is overworked. Why spend $5,000 of the taxpayers' money, when it is not necessary? Goodness knows we are taxed enough at present, without adding more burdens to our slender means. Why do we want to try and act the same as a city with five or six times our population? We are only a small city as population goes. Why try to imitate the larger cities when it is entirely unnecessary?

Now if policemen were to act like traffic policemen, by standing right in the centre of the intersection, and using their arms properly, and their authority, instead of standing on the side of the road and vainly trying to do the impossible, they could do all that is necessary and make an easy job of it.

I would suggest to our worthy chief that he supply them with white overalls, so that everyone can see them, like the policemen in London, England, wear, and a few movements of the arm, and that is needed. We can't expect some of these young constables to have seen how it is done in London, but some of the older officers surely have seen how admirably the London "Bobby" controls the poor old Chinese.

As an instructor, or it might be said to send a couple over there to brick, observe how it is done. At the most we only need about four traffic controllers, and why spend money we haven't got when we have the men to do the job right in the force. It seems such a ridiculous policy, and I don't think the majority of those who pay the taxes are in favor of it.

HORSES VS. HUMANS

Sir,—A poor old fellow who has to earn his living when it should be shot and put out of its misery is a sad sight, but what of a human? There are plenty of old men, and women, who are in a worse plight than the poor old Chinese man's horse. Humans at least have a roof over their heads and certain comforts that a horse, by nature, does not require. There are humans who have passed the three score years and who are deprived of an old age pension simply because they have struggled, and starved maybe, to retain their own homes, and who would be compelled to go for taxes before the Pension Board, who would listen to their just claims. Pity both the old horses and the aged humans as well.

IN DEFENCE OF THE HORSE

Sir,—A letter from A. Neale, re the condition of a horse and wagon, has come to my notice. I know the horse in question and was rather surprised that the animal has been certified fit for work, but this being the case the S.P.C.A. is powerless to do anything.

With regard to the wagon, I frankly admit that it is deplorable. If the horse is to be kept in it, it is to be replaced, or if not, I do not know, but I do know that if they did they would be starting a highly dangerous precedent.

In my opinion any surplus funds should be spent on buying feed for the horses, rather than on repairing and replacing the vehicles they draw.

OVERFLOW IN B.C. QUARTERS

Part of Education Department Moved Into Douglas House on Superior St.

Crammed to capacity for some years now, the British Columbia Legislative Buildings overflowed again yesterday and spilled some of its offices into second-floor annex space south of Superior Street. Portions of the staff of the correspondence school conducted by the Department of Education were relocated on the second floor of Douglas House after removal from the main pile.

Officials connected with elementary correspondence courses had been located in a section of the former railway offices on the third floor of the buildings, in the west wing. This space will now be used by school inspectors, who will share quarters once used by the draughting branch of the Railway Department.

The school inspectors, in turn, were turned out of some of the committee rooms off Mr. Speaker's gallery, where they had held temporary quarters for lack of other accommodation. The ground floor of Douglas House, it was stated, will continue as the home of the Victoria Branch of the Psychiatric Clinic, conducted under the Health Branch of the Provincial Secretary's Department.

AUTO CLUB SECRETARY SAYS ISLAND HIGHWAY IS IN GOOD CONDITION

For a road of its class, the Vancouver Island Highway is in good condition as far as Merville, nine miles north of Courtenay, according to T. J. Goodlake, secretary of the Victoria Automobile Club, who recently returned from a tour of inspection Up-Island.

Mr. Goodlake reported that north of Merville the road is being regraded to standard width, but the surface had not yet been treated and is in poor condition.

Up-Island hotelkeepers are still enjoying good business, as a large number of visiting motorists are even now using the highway, Mr. Goodlake added.

Mistress: "Mary, these banisters always seem dusty." I was at Mrs. Johnson's today, and here are as bright and smooth as glass."

Mary: "She has three small boys, mum."

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

DECEIVING THE DEFENCE

When a duplicate game is scored on a board, a match table, a thirty-point overtrick very often is just as important as a swing of many more points in rubber bridge. When you are playing, for instance, in a board-a-match team-of-four game, a difference of ten points may be as good as 1,000.

Today's hand occurred in the preliminary qualifying round of the recent team-of-four tournament at Asbury Park, N. J. The South player, who was the declarer at a game contract which was absolutely iron-clad, succeeded in winning the board for his team by making five odd against the opponents. He did this not by stealing a trick himself, but by deceiving the opponents in such a manner that they did not take advantage of their opportunities.

The crux of the entire play came at the very first trick—before the declarer had played from dummy. West chose as his opening lead the five of clubs, the top of a worthless doubleton. The declarer did not quickly play a low card from dummy, as a great many fair bridge players would automatically do, but instead, stopped to think. At first glance it seemed possible that the five of clubs was a fourth-best lead. South soon realized, however, that if the lead were a fourth-best, West

PRESENTED WITH GIFT

Kelowna Residents Honor J. W. Jones on His Departure for Victoria

J. W. Jones, former Minister of Finance of the Province, has returned to Victoria from his former home in Kelowna, and with Mrs. Jones, has taken up residence in the Bessborough Apartments, McClure Street. He has entered business here as the head of the financial firm of J. W. Jones, Ltd., on View Street, where he is associated with Hugh Allan, who has been in charge of affairs during the absence of Mr. Jones in the Interior, where he wound up his business relations in Kelowna following a twenty-seven years' residence there.

Before leaving the Interior city, Mr. Jones was, last Wednesday, the guest of honor at a banquet held under the auspices of the Kelowna Board of Trade, when he was made the recipient of a valuable silver salver. This bore the following inscription:

"Presented to J. W. Jones, Esq., by the Kelowna Board of Trade, in grateful recognition of loyal service as a citizen of Kelowna and district. Member, Kelowna Board of Trade, 1907-1934; president, Kelowna Board of Trade, 1911; alderman, city of Kelowna, 1912-16; member, British Columbia Legislature, 1916-23; Speaker, British Columbia Legislature, 1928-30; Minister of Finance, Government of British Columbia, 1930-33."

HONORED BY RESIDENTS

The Kelowna Courier, in referring to the banquet, said in a recent issue:

"Last night a large and representative gathering of Kelowna citizens and many old friends from the surrounding district and other parts of the valley crowded the large dining-room of the Royal Anne Hotel to bid farewell to one who had been a distinguished member of this community for the past twenty-seven years, and one who has made many invaluable contributions not only to Kelowna and the Okanagan Valley, but to the province as a whole—J. W. Jones, former Minister of Finance. Mr. Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Jones, left today for Victoria. "Deep regret at the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and testimony to their sterling worth were warmly expressed by political friend and foe alike, and they take with them to their new home the warmest wishes of the people of the Okanagan Valley."

"On behalf of the Kelowna Board of Trade, under whose auspices the dinner was held, and the citizens of Kelowna, President D. Chapman presented to Mr. Jones, amid tremendous applause, a beautiful sterling silver salver.

EULOGIZED MR. JONES

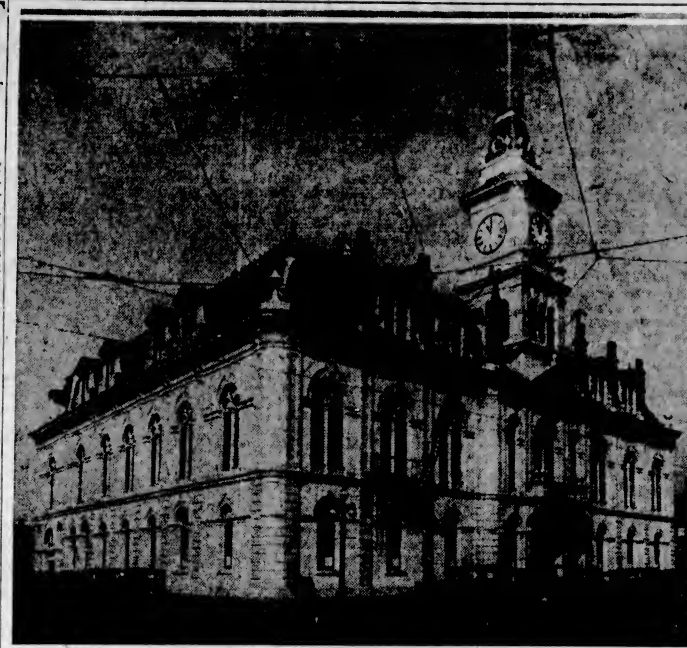

"The presentation followed an address by Mayor W. B. Trench, who reviewed in eulogistic terms the successful career of Mr. Jones since he took up residence in Kelowna many years ago.

"Mr. Jones replied that when one started saying good-bye to the heartstrings were touched, as one could not live in a district twenty-seven years without forming close associations. He would rather say au revoir as he hoped to return to Kelowna several times a year. If he could be of any assistance in Victoria his services would always be available. He would take away with him the kindest memories of Kelowna and other places in the valley, and he thanked them from the bottom of his heart for their kindly expression on the eve of his departure.

"Tribute was paid to Mr. Jones by Ven. Archdeacon Greene, Dr. Morris, of Vernon; Grote Stirling, M.P.; Monty Fraser, on behalf of the Kelowna Club, of which Mr. Jones was a member; ex-Mayor D. H. Rathenbury; J. E. Reekie, M. P.; Williams, Winfield; Magistrate J. F. Burne, H. B. D. Lyons, K. Iwashita, and T. G. Norris, all of whom spoke in laudatory vein and expressed their sincere regret at the departure of an outstanding citizen."

"The phenomenal increase in consumption of tomato juice" has led the Department of Agriculture to work on the problem of producing new varieties of disease resistant to tomatoes.

Fine Example Is Set by City Hall

Above is a view of the City Hall taken since it was transformed by a crew of painters. It is now one of the few bright spots on Douglas Street, due to the cheerful color selected for its exterior. The interior also has been painted throughout, while the sanitary system also has been brought up to date.

DROP SHOWN IN RELIEF TOTALS

Registered Unemployed in B.C. Decline From 51,000 to 29,000 Since March Dropping steadily since March, British Columbia relief registrations included 29,000 persons yesterday, the lowest of any total in the last two years. E. W. Griffiths, Provincial relief administrator, said consolidation of old and new relief lists was about complete, with 10,000 persons listed in provincial areas, and 19,000 in municipalities, exclusive of dependents.

This is a reduction from 51,000 unemployed registered for relief in March last, a total that declined steadily to 31,600 in July, and now to 29,000 persons in receipt of assistance.

While seasonal works have accounted for some of the reduction, accumulation in relief lists after these works close is not expected to any great extent.

INQUIRE INTO EARNINGS

Provincial officials are under instructions to see that men who secured seasonal employment this year, and who earned sums sufficient to carry them through the winter, do not apply for relief.

Inspectors under the relief administrator are checking up on earnings in logging camps, canneries, and other seasonal occupations from which the Province receives reports. For the most part, those who had seasonal work will be able to carry themselves, it is believed.

HONOR WINNERS VISIT VICTORIA

S. A. Redgrave and Roy A. Harrison, Ford Merit Club Members, Enjoying Holiday

Winners of Merit Club memberships, the highest honor that the Ford Motor Company can confer on its employees, G. A. Redgrave, a dealer, and Roy A. Harrison, of Redwood, California, are paying a short visit to Victoria. As a reward for their efficiency as superintendents of sales departments, these men were given free trips to the World's Fair at Chicago. Only six men were chosen in the State of California for this honor. After an enjoyable holiday in Chicago, they are now en route home.

Mr. Redgrave is in Victoria visiting his mother, Mrs. Ellen Redgrave, who resides at 619 Harbinger Avenue. Until twelve years ago, Mr. Redgrave was associated in business in this city.

Although both Mr. Redgrave and Mr. Harrison declare they are enjoying their holiday in Victoria, they explain they are anxious to return to their respective businesses in the South. Until their departure tomorrow, they will reside at the Dominion Hotel.

STATES CONDITIONS IN EASTERN STATES ARE STILL IMPROVING

Although industries in the Eastern States are not enjoying the same upward trend that they did in the Spring, conditions are still improving, according to John Hall Forbes, lawyer, of New York City, who is visiting at the Empress Hotel with his wife. They plan to stay in Victoria until Friday, when they will leave for California, en route home.

Alan Chambers Advocates Wider Insurance Plan at Liberal Ward Meeting

"The Liberal party stands committed to a nation-wide insurance scheme. The great masses of the people must no longer be allowed to carry the burden of loss of employment, sickness and accidents," Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate for the Nanaimo Federal riding, told members of Ward Four Saanich Liberal Association, at the annual meeting of that organization in Marigold Hall last night.

Mr. Chambers was quoting from an address by the Liberal Leader in the recent Ontario by-elections. Mr. Chambers said that, in accordance with the announced policy of the Liberal party, he could advocate the widest possible social insurance scheme whereby men and women could be retired on state pension at an earlier age than seventy years, in order to make way in the labor market for the ever-increasing number of young men and women.

MEMBER SPEAKS

Norman W. Whittaker, M.P.P., for Saanich, also addressed the meeting and dealt mainly with the minimum wage laws and the Industrial Relations Board. Concerning Federal and Provincial politics, Mr. Whittaker stated that, in his opinion, there should be a government at Ottawa that would be sympathetic to the Provincial administration.

"One of the biggest obstacles the Province has to overcome is the unsympathetic attitude of the Dominion Government towards the local administration in its efforts to carry out its policies."

The meeting was held for the purpose of receiving reports on ward organization and to choose officers for the 1934-35 term. All officers were re-elected as follows: President, C. T. Oudmore; vice-president, A. V. Dodson, and secretary-treasurer, J. Warnock.

WHITE HORSE SCOTCH WHISKY

Never was White Horse Scotch as good or as old as it is today. Years ago, exceptionally heavy stocks of the finest whiskies were laid down to anticipate sales which the quality would justify. These stocks are now fully matured. The result is that WHITE HORSE is now older and better than pre-war.

Quiet Home Wedding Is Solemnized

The marriage of Jessie Abercrombie, elder daughter of Mr. John Fullerton, 1945 Ash Street, and of the late Mrs. Fullerton, and Mr. John Donald Campbell, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Campbell, 717 McClellan Street, was quietly solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, in a lovely setting of autumn foliage, Michaelmas daisies, chrysanthemums and asters in pastel shades. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., assisted by the bride's uncle, Rev. David Reid, of Seattle, conducted the service in the presence of immediate relatives of the bride and groom, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Alvin Morgan, of Port Angeles, sister of the groom, sang most beautifully, "At Dawning". The bride wore a lovely frock of French blue triple sheer with a yoke of Chantilly lace of the same shade, finished at the V-neck with a cluster of matching blue flowers, a hat of soft blue felt and suede gloves and shoes, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, pale pink carnations and maiden-hair fern.

GANGES
The monthly meeting of the Ganges Women's Institute was held Friday afternoon, in the committee room of the Mahon Hall. The president, Mrs. N. Wilson, was in the chair and fifteen members were present. Part of the afternoon was given up to making final arrangements for the assistance of the agricultural association in their farmers' frolic, to be held next Friday. For this purpose, sub-committees were elected to look after the decorations, supper, prizes, etc. It was stated that an orchestra from Victoria would be in attendance, and that Mr. C. F. Roberts had arranged for some special novelty numbers on the stage. A demonstration of quilting was given by Mrs. Anderson, and an hour was spent in progress, throughout the year. Mrs. N. Wilson and Mrs. T. F. Speed brought some beautiful roses and asters. These were sent to the Gulf Islands Hospital. Tea hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. H. Johnson and Mrs. C. W. Baker.

YOUNG LIBERALS

The Young Liberal Association at Ganges organized a successful progressive whist drive, Friday evening, in the Mahon Hall. Twenty-four tables took part in play, the master of ceremonies for the evening being A. A. Eaton. The hall was decorated entirely with evergreens. The ladies' first prizes were won by Mrs. George St. Denis and Mrs. T. Isherwood; the gentlemen's by G. W. Baker and Roland Inglis. The prizes were presented by Mrs. W. M. Mout.

It was Sunday morning in a men's class in an English church school. "Will you please tell me," said a member to the teacher, "how far in actual miles Dan is from Beersheba? All my life I have heard the familiar phrase 'from Dan to Beersheba,' but I have never known the distance."

Before the answer could be given, another member arose in the back of the room, to interrupt. "Do I understand that Dan and Beersheba are the names of places?" "Yes."

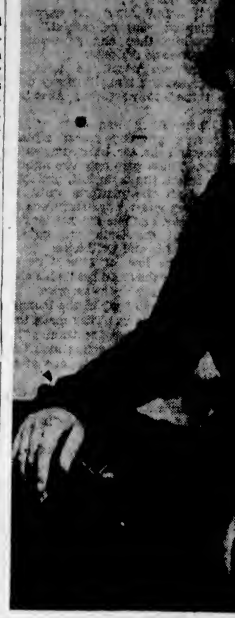

"That is one on me. I always thought that they were husband and wife, like Sodom and Gomorrah."

Germany Determined To Win Place in Sun Again, Says Speaker

Captain H. G. Scott, of Calgary, in Masterly Address Before Victoria Women's Canadian Club, Deals Ably With "Crisis in Germany"

A SOBERING and somewhat sombre picture of present-day Europe shadowed by the grave menace of a Germany utterly without remorse for her part in causing the Great War, a Germany still embittered and resentful because of her failure to win the war, a defeated but still powerful Germany lapsing, in many respects, "into something not far removed from the barbarism of the Middle Ages and threatening the peace and security of Europe," was painted by Capt. H. G. Scott, of Calgary, in the masterly address that he gave before the Women's Canadian Club, yesterday afternoon, in the Empress Hotel.

Speaking on the subject of "The Crisis in Germany," Captain Scott not only gave a pithy summary of present-day conditions within Germany, but also drew some far-reaching conclusions. A map of Europe assisted his audience the better to visualize some of his points.

"EXCEEDINGLY SERIOUS"

"The news that has come to us from Europe recently is exceedingly serious. It means that while we are little more than fifteen years from the close of the Great War, Europe is again facing the danger of war. The source of that danger lies mainly in Germany," he said, in his opening remark.

To appreciate the meaning of this, he rehearsed a little past history. What did the Great War mean to Germany? In 1914 Germany was one of the greatest nations in the world, with tremendous power at home and abroad, and with an apparent great future before her. By a narrow margin she failed in the Great War. By the terms of defeat she lost all her overseas colonies, lost many of her merchant service, one-seventh of her home territory, she also had to put up with the occupation of the Rhineland, she had to accept a demand for a huge indemnity—a grim ending to a great dream, although, in the speaker's view, she got what she deserved.

TODAY—AND HITLER

What had come out of this? Years of despondency and confusion, during which Germany was like a ship without a port and without a captain. But out of those years of despondency and confusion had come a new Germany—and Adolf Hitler. Hitler, Austrian by birth, without any special hereditary background, without inherited wealth, without any special intellectual endowments, how had he come to such a tremendous position? Because, thought the speaker, he embodied for the whole of the German people their bitter resentment of defeat in the Great War and their determination to recover, at all costs, their power.

Hitler's "methods" of winning popular support were described. Not a man of great originality of idea, he exercised, nevertheless, a sort of emotional power over the Germans, driving home certain basic Nazi tenets, which he came to regard as his own. He had been treated in the peace terms, that Germany was one of the great nations of the world and should get back her position. In other words, he had been told that Germany was to be a great nation, and he wanted to get it. In this respect, he was not exceptional as a political phenomenon, but the attitude of his audience differed from that of a British audience in that the latter, much as they might applaud, would never let admiration carry them to the point of making a demigod of their hero.

NAZI SALUTE

In this connection the dramatic solemnity of the Nazi salute, accompanied by its "Heil, Hitler!" was pictured by Captain Scott. Translated into commonplace terms, nearer home, it was as grotesque as if Victoria citizens, meeting one another, raised the hand and solemnly said, "God bless Patullo!" Captain Scott saw a certain resemblance between Hitler's rise and that of Napoleon III. It would be interesting to watch and see how far the comparison would remain true.

Predominating in the Hitler regime were violence and ruthless disregard of any who differed from Hitler and his policy. From the moment of the rise of the Nazi party there has been a constant element of brutal violence, beginning with attacks on the Communists, then on the Jews, and on every form of liberal thought.

More than all others, the attacks on the Jews had attracted the attention of the outside world. Although the Jews were a numerically small part of the German population, they were the target of the most vicious persecution. The speaker pointed out that the Jews were the only group in Germany who were not allowed to vote.

He then turned to the subject of the "stop" action when it is whizzing by at an angle as it approaches. He pointed out that the "stop" action is a very important part of the snapshot technique.

When Coffee Cup Drops

This is what happens when you drop a coffee cup—filled with coffee—on a floor. Shattering fragments caught by a high-speed camera at the moment of impact. Note the jets of coffee spurting from the sides and centre of the cup as the broken crockery falls away. This photograph was made with an exposure of approximately 1-100,000th of a second by means of electrical circuit developed by Professors H. E. Edgerton and Kenneth Gernsheim at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass. Marvellous pictures are made with this super-speed photographic equipment.

organized a soup kitchen to help the destitute, but the Nazis confiscated the kitchen and imprisoned the woman.

NEWS CENSORSHIP

Suppression of the freedom of the press was another sinister factor of the Nazi regime. So completely had the press been muzzled and controlled that the people no longer believed what they read, only what the Nazis wished being published. One result of this censorship was that the newspapers were extremely dull, and hundreds of newspapers had ceased to publish, while a number of the more liberal Germans, including the socialists, had fled to Czechoslovakia, where, from Prague, they were publishing newspapers on very fine paper being smuggled back across the frontier into Germany to enjoy a subterranean circulation among thousands of readers. Some of these papers had a circulation of as much as 100,000 daily. This meant that a constant argument was going on. Conversely, there was a constant stream of Nazi agents crossing over into Czechoslovakia trying to trace these papers. This was ominous, unhealthful.

Against this sinister picture of a Nazi-dominated Germany, Captain Scott inserted some of the brighter elements. Hitlerism had given points in its favor. Hitler had given to the young people of Germany a new sense of leadership and purpose in life. Defeat in the war destroyed for a time Germany's sense of purpose, a particularly unwholesome condition for the young people of the country. Today young people feel that they have at last a head man resolute and determined, "who knows where he is going and is prepared to lead them there." He has given them a new sense of discipline and control, "a thing that might be useful in their homes," the speaker commented.

LABOR CAMPS

Among the commendable features of Nazism was the ruling that before a student was allowed to enter a German university today, he had to serve a term of six months in one of the labor camps of the country, "an excellent thing for the young men of Germany and other countries." Every young man also had to have a certain amount of military training. There was also a system of transfer whereby city children were sent for a time to the country schools. This was an interesting experiment and worth watching.

Hitler had made changes of drastic character in Germany. Before the war, and to some extent after, Germany was a federal empire, the

Security Prices Move Narrowly At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP).—The early October front melted moderately in today's stock market, but the chill of yesterday's reaction was still felt in the boardrooms.

Although selling pressure relaxed, and mild recoveries were scattered throughout the list, traders showed little inclination to reach for their favorites.

Transfers totaled only 371,170 shares.

Stocks that held gains of fractions to around a point or so, included U.S. Smelting, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco, McIntyre Porcupine, Dome, U.S. Rubber, preferred, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville, Dupont, Interborough Rapid Transit, Texas Gulf, J. C. Penney and Wrigley.

Such issues as General Telephone, U.S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, American Can, National Distillers, International Nickel and Allied Chemical were extremely narrow. Some of the utilities, such as Consolidated Gas, North American and Western Union, were a bit easier.

The bond market moved within a restricted area today in a dull and featureless session.

Industrials and utilities showed little change either way. German 5-1/2's declined 21-8 points to 25.

Virginia Vane Says:

WHAT TO DO WITH MOTHER—CRUEL LADY WHO USES
DRAMATIC INSTINCT TO PROLONG A QUARREL

Dear Virginia Vane: Since my father died, my mother has been supported by my sisters and myself. My wife cannot seem to get along with my mother, and mother does not seem particularly happy with the sister with whom she now lives. All my sisters help to support her, but not one of them is willing to live with her.

Now mother's attitude is that nobody wants her and that she would be better off dead. The question is, do you think she should stay where she is—with one of my sisters and her husband—or move? Should she go into some strange family where she could pay a little and also help with the housework? Is it wise to let her do this?—Very Doubtful.

It isn't fair to any of your sisters or their husbands that mother should be permanently parked with them and allowed to interfere with the peace and happiness of their lives. Apparently mother has no talent for fitting into her children's homes, and thus she must always bring discontent and unrest wherever she goes.

Don't worry too much about that cry of hers: "I might as well be dead. Nobody wants me." She doesn't really mean that. She is naturally upset at finding herself an outsider in the homes of her own children, but she undoubtedly finds comfort in blaming the lack of understanding on the various brothers-in-law.

She'd be far happier in a home where she was unable to feel a keen personal interest in the private affairs of the mistress of the house. She'd probably be a willing and able helper in the home of some friend or acquaintance. Freed from the necessity of fighting her daughter's battles and resenting her son-in-law attitude, she might develop into a cheerful living companion.

I think your suggestion of paying-guest-helper is an excellent one. Why not make inquiries among your friends and neighbors to discover whether there is not some niche into which your mother could fit? You and your sisters and your various better halves would all be a good deal better off if you could successfully dispose of the problem of What to Do With Mother—and at the same time be convinced that you were giving her a real chance to be happy.

Rest assured that no mother is really happy wandering around from one home to another, knowing herself always to be a misfit. Try as she may to be sentimental and tearful about living apart from her children, she is bound to become a healthier and more useful citizen away from the children, whose domestic problems are better off without her.

DON'T CATER TO GIRL FRIEND'S DRAMATIC SENSE

Dear Miss Vane: The girl I love has been angry at me for weeks. It all started over some things I said in a fit of jealousy. I was sorry five minutes later, and said so. I have tried again and again to make up. I have used every means in my power to prove to her that I love her and want her back again. But she keeps saying that she is still angry at me. She has sent back all the presents I've ever given her. Yet I feel that she still loves me, and do not know how to make her admit this.—J.H.R.Z.

Maybe your girl is enjoying the sensation of being dramatic. Perhaps you and she have jogged along peacefully for so long that her feminine soul has cried for a change. So out of the blue she begins a long warfare, and while you suffer she enjoys a curious pleasure in prolonging a situation which is actually painful to her in some degree.

I have seen this happen before, and I have always despaired over the poor hero of the piece who goes on blindly playing up to his lady's big scene. I have wondered why in the name of goodness he didn't recall her to sanity by refusing to be the victim of the piece. I have longed to suggest to him that he make her worry so darned hard she forgets to be a tragedy queen about nothing.

So J., here's my chance to tell one deluded sultor not to sit down and take this kind of punishment. By this time the girl knows, if she has an atom of common sense, that no possible blame can be attached to you for the quarrel. She must know that you truly love her. And somewhere inside, she must realize that it is she who is drawing out the argument. So you need have no fear that a sudden coldness on your part will confirm her suspicion that you're a villain. It will merely serve to wake her up to the folly of her play-acting. It will bring her back to a real sense of values. It will make her stop crying at once, and give her something constructive to do, i.e., go about the business of getting you back.

Write her a letter telling her definitely that you are prepared to go back to the old basis as fast as she can see her way clear to getting there, but that you have no intention of hanging around apologizing for something you didn't do. Tell her that therefore you will not see her until she has changed her attitude, and then clear out and let her wipe away the crocodile tears and start practicing a welcome-home smile for you.

B.C.: All you can do now is to write a note apologizing for your breach of etiquette. I think he resented your bad manners and also probably didn't fancy the implication that you were the kind of girl to be dropped on a street corner instead of taken straight home.

Explain that you acted on an impulse and that the whole situation has arisen because of a silly mistake on your part. Let him see that your attitude is sane and normal and perhaps he will reverse his present opinion of you.

As for the manner of his introduction, it was perfectly natural and correct. I'm afraid that original doubt in your mind prompted your later behavior.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"THUG"

Between the stealthy criminal of today who waylays and loots his victim and the frenzied member of a religious sect whose ritual requires murder there would not seem to be any connection, but that is exactly how we have the word "thug."

Though it bears all the earmarks, "thug" is not slang. Rather, it comes to us from the Hindustani "thag," which was the name given to a member of a certain North Indian association which murdered from religious motives and supported itself by plundering the dead.

The word "thag" in Hindustani means "deceiver," "robber," and is pronounced "thag" in which form it was introduced into the English language with the sense it has today.

It may be mentioned in passing that despite strenuous attempts by England to exterminate this Indian sect, it is reported to be still in existence.

"Sentenced before?"
"Fined half a crown for riding a cycle without lights."

"Nothing else?"
"Oh, I have just remembered that I did five years for robbery with violence."—Lustige Kölner Zeitung, Cologne.

NEWS OF B.C. MINING

ABCO MINES IN GOOD SHOWINGS

Property at Herbert Arm on West Coast Now Being Developed

Mining activity on Vancouver Island, which has been marked during the past year, is being materially increased through the incorporation of Abco Mines, Limited, which company has secured title to the Mary McQuillon group of twelve claims at the head of Herbert Arm. The property was held under option by the Waverley-Tangier Mines, Limited, with prospecting work carried on since early last spring.

Russell Walker & Co., Ltd., are the new company's fiscal agents, and B. W. W. McDougall, M.E., is the consulting engineer.

NO BLANK ASSAYS

Abco holdings consist of twelve claims, located at tidewater, with fourteen veins disclosed through surface stripping. No blank assays were met with in the forty-nine samples cut by the consulting engineer, with values running from a few dollars per ton to as high as 19 ounces of gold per ton in the case of quartz stringers in the shear zones.

BUILD NEW FLOAT

A new float, 20 x 50 feet, has been constructed at the head of Herbert Arm, where machinery and supplies will be unloaded direct from coastwise steamers. A mile of motor highway is to be constructed immediately from the seashore up Cotter Creek to the site of the proposed Diesel compressor house and lower camp buildings. A tramway up the mountain to a height of approximately 3,000 feet will be installed as part of the preparatory work, and machine drilling will be undertaken from the start.

It is the company's intention to ship high-grade ore to the smelter from the commencement of mining development, so that revenue will be available while exploration of the veins and their development are under way.

English Capital For Development

CAMBORNE—News here is that British capital is available for development of the Goldfinch Mine, one of the promising properties of this section. It was acquired in 1933 by Dalhousie Mining Company, of Victoria, and preliminary work started included the erection of camp buildings, construction of trail, etc. R. H. Smith, of Victoria, was in charge. The property has favorable mention in the annual report of the Minister of Mines for 1934 and in the Geological Survey of Canada annual report, 1933.

Dalhousie Mining Company's original property is in Portland Canal district, and in 1928-29 it did work on a molybdenum showing at Alice Arm.

Superior Gold Now Getting Under Way

A letter received from the manager of the Superior Gold Mines states that the building of the mill is 90 per cent completed, with mill machinery and equipment in place. Electricians are working as fast as possible to get all electrical work completed before October 10. The West Kootenay Power & Light Co., Ltd., are getting the power line in to the mill and expect to have same completed before the tenth. Truck and holds have been laid and completed on the fourth level, and ready to break ore on the fifth and sixth on the north end of the Providence Mine. No. 2 shaft, on the south end of the Providence property, is being rushed to the 600-foot level. Underground drifting on the south end is going on developing more new ore.

Mr. Reese states that the mill should be completed and running by October 15. W. F. M. Plotke, general manager of the company, is to inspect the mill and the properties.

Teacher: "Johnny, what is the function of the nose?" Johnny: "To blow and to hold spectacles."

PREMIER MINES GOLD TAILINGS

Now Collecting Deposits of Fourteen Years of Run of Mill

For fourteen years the mill at the Premier Mine, Portland Canal district, has been dumping tailings in the flat below the mine, through which runs one of the mountain streams. These tailings are of considerable amount, and as they are carried from the mill by water, the flat has been practically a huge settling basin. The constant flow of water through the years has gradually carried away the pulverized rock to a large extent, and the gold content of the tailings, of which there is a certain amount in every mill has settled.

It has been found that what remains of the tailings on the flat carry large gold values per ton. All that has to be done is to sack the concentrate and ship it to the smelter. So the Premier Mine has found what is a high-grade mine right at its door, with the ore mined and tested. The tonnage is considerable.

News of Mines

By Bate & Co., Ltd.

Ontario Mines will produce around 2,100,000 ounces of gold during the current year, with a value of approximately $70,000,000.

Lakeshore will have a gross income of approximately $17,000,000 during the full year 1934, according to results up to this time. This indicates Lakeshore is producing nearly 8 per cent of all the gold coming from the mines of Ontario.

Beatle Gold has developed a process which is expected to save the company approximately $15,000 a month at current rate of operations. Hollinger Consolidated will pay a bonus of 10 cents per share with its regular four-weekly dividend of 5 cents on October 5. This will make $1.10 per share, or $5,412,000 paid so far this year. The company, to date, has distributed $71,514,000 to its shareholders; has developed an $80,000,000 ore reserve, and is endeavoring to develop new mines at Matatchewan and in the Haislop field.

Teck-Hughes is in a stronger physical and financial condition than it was a year ago. The position of the company and the enterprise has been misunderstood through the recent statements and the wave of comment. For the past year or so the company has been developing the Lamaque mine, in Quebec, to offset the ultimate decline to be expected in due time on the original Teck-Hughes. During the second quarter in the new year the new mill on Lamaque will come into production at a tonnage rate equal to the reduction made in the Teck-Hughes scale of work.

Smelter Gold has discovered a new vein, this time on the westerly holdings known as the Galena group. The deposit is highly mineralized, with the vein composed of black and rusty quartz about five to seven feet in width. The new find is within sight of the central shaft on the main vein of Gods Lake. At the time of writing, a wireless message also declares that the diamond drill working on Smelter has intersected the No. 1 vein. The message states: "Hit No. 1 vein at 895 feet. Have been in it for ten feet and still going strong. Looks splendid. Blue quartz and well mineralized."

Howey Gold has had a gross income averaging more than $150,000 per month so far this year. The mill has handled an average of 40,000 tons per month. New work is adding to the tonnage of better in the deep development to the east grade ore.

McKenzie Red Lake, with more than 100,000 tons of ore indicated, and with values averaging close to half an ounce of gold to the ton, is pushing ahead with mill construction. All machinery is expected to be cleared through Hudson by the third week in October, in order to make delivery at the mine before winter sets in.

Little Long Lac has encountered some exceedingly rich ore in a deposit running closely parallel to the main vein at the fourth level. Some of the early assays show values of $50 to $100 in gold per ton.

Dentonla crosscut has now been advanced to a distance of more than 825 feet, and is expected to reach the orebody, upon which stopping operations are now in progress on upper levels, in the course of another 475 feet. Further developments on the Anchor claim are in progress.

Young-Shannon has intersected five and a half feet of ore, carrying $12.25 per ton in gold, in the latest diamond drill hole put down.

The Kootenay Belle mill is nearing completion and is expected to be in operation within two or three weeks. It will start on a twenty-five-ton basis. Ore reserves in the mine are estimated at about $25 a ton of ore of an average grade, or about 5 ounces per ton. During a period of twelve months, ended February 28, 1934, an amount of 926 tons of ore of an average grade of 1.2 ounces gold per ton was shipped from the property.

Glacier Creek—With the progress now being made on the crosscut tunnel, the vein will be encountered within 200 feet, after which drifting north and south on the vein will be continued. Arrangements are being made with the Dunwell Mines, Limited, to mill the Glacier Creek ore.

COLUMARIA REACHES PRODUCTION STAGE

After a somewhat hectic market-wide career Columaria Consolidated Gold Mines with mine at Usk, B.C., has finally reached the production stage, according to H. P. Mills, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Mills states that the recently installed mill, after a thorough testing, is now running continuously twenty-four hours per day. It is stated that concentrates being produced are running better than five ounces of gold per ton with tails .04 ounce or less per ton.

THOMPSON RIVER GOLD TO BEGIN OPERATIONS

Thompson River Gold, It is reported, will begin operations on the Thompson River near Martel a few miles west of Spence Bridge in the very near future.

The company has a lease of the river from Yale to Savona, and the "suction" dredge is ready to begin bringing gravel from the bed of the river. Manager Hutton is in charge of operations.

Little Bedtime Stories

Unc' Billy Possum Gets a Surprise

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Unc' Billy Possum was trotting along the Crooked Little Path down the hill. He was just starting out on the daily round of calls, and he was grinning as only Unc' Billy Possum can grin.

"Mah name is Billy Possum and mah home's a hollow tree. By day or night I wander forth—It's all the same to me. Ah fill my stomach with an egg, or sometimes it is fish; In fact, Ah always helps mahself to anything Ah wish. For mah name is Billy Possum and mah other name is Smart; To catch yo' Uncle Billy, yo' must make an early start."

Unc' Billy was singing this to himself as he trotted along the Crooked Little Path, and all the time he was thinking of the great joke that he and his old friend Mocker, from way down South, were playing on the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. Until Bobby Coon found it out, no one had known that Mocker was in the Green Forest. So Mocker, who can make his voice sound exactly like the voices of other little people, had hidden himself and called out mean things in other people's voices until no one would speak to anyone else excepting Unc' Billy Possum, about whom Mocker said only the kindest things. Of course, with no one else to take to everybody was dreadfully glad to see Unc' Billy when he made his round of calls and almost always he was sure to find something nice to eat waiting for him.

This morning he was on his way to call first on Johnny Chuck. Half way down the hill he met Bobby Coon. Unc' Billy stopped and held out one hand as he said, "Good morning, Bobby Coon. How do yo' all do this fine morning?"

Bobby Coon walked right past as if he didn't see Unc' Billy at all. He didn't even look at him.

"What's the matter with yo' this morning, Bobby Coon?" shouted Unc' Billy. Bobby Coon kept right on without so much as turning his head. Unc' Billy watched him, and operations are now in progress on upper levels, in the course of another 475 feet. Further developments on the Anchor claim are in progress.

BRITANNIA MINE SOLVES PROBLEM

Engineers Overcome Difficulties by Making Over Mill From Copper to Gold-Zinc

Notable of the achievements of Canadian metallurgists during recent years is to the credit of the staff of the Britannia mine in British Columbia.

When the price of copper fell, in place of closing the mine and mill and turning the staff and workmen adrift, the management searched diligently for an alternative, and found it.

The technical side of the story is recounted in a most interesting way in the July Bulletin of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

LOW GRADE COPPER

The Britannia mill treats ordinarily 4,000 tons a day of a rather low grade copper ore, containing a little gold. When this became unprofitable, the metallurgists turned their attention to a part of the mine, hitherto not mined, that contained zinc ore with a larger proportion of gold. The price of zinc had not gone to such depths as had that of copper, and gold had risen in price, so this gold-zinc ore could be made to pay if these metals could be separated in the mill built for the separation of copper.

MAKE MILL OVER

Skill and ingenuity of the Britannia staff were equal to the occasion, and in short order a simple means was discovered of making the copper mill over into a gold-zinc mill. The treatment of this gold-zinc ore, formerly considered useless, saved the substantial community at Britannia Beach. The mill can be very simply and rapidly changed back to the profitable treatment of the usual copper ore.

The widower who inscribed on his wife's tombstone, "The light of my life has gone out," excused himself to her successor by adding, "But I have struck a second match."

Unc' Billy sat down and scratched his head

there was a puzzled look on Unc' Billy's face. "Must be that Bobby Coon has something powerful important on his mind," muttered Unc' Billy, as he started on.

Pretty soon he met Jimmy Skunk, who has always been one of Unc' Billy's best friends. Jimmy Skunk was looking under every stick and stone for beetles for his breakfast.

"Good morning, Neighbor Skunk," said Unc' Billy in his heartiest voice.

Jimmy Skunk, who never hurries, kept right on pulling over sticks and stones, just as if he didn't see or hear Unc' Billy at all. In fact, when he pulled over one stone he dropped it right on Unc' Billy's tail and didn't seem to hear Unc' Billy's "Ouch!" as he pulled his tail from under the stone. Jimmy just went right on about his business.

Unc' Billy sat down and scratched his head. His face had lost the cheerful grin with which he had started out that morning. Pretty soon he started on, but every few minutes he would stop and scratch his head thoughtfully. He didn't know what to make of Bobby Coon and Jimmy Skunk. He was so surprised that he hadn't known whether to be angry or not.

"Ah must find out what Johnny Chuck knows about it," thought Unc' Billy as he trotted on.

Are YOU as expert as SHE?

THINK for a minute—what if you had the house to run, meals to plan and children to care for? Do you think you could do the job as well as your wife does? On the same amount of money? Be honest.

The housewives of the nation study and know their jobs. They read the advertisements regularly. They keep themselves informed of the best offerings of the stores. They are expert purchasing agents.

These purchasing agents, from necessity or individual desire, aim to make every dollar spent return a full one hundred cents' worth in value. They know their needs. They know through the advertisements just where these needs can be best supplied at the least cost. Such intelligent buying saves time and effort and money. It results in a management of the home that is truly efficient.

Here's some good advice for all of us. Read the advertisements. Read them every day in The Daily Colonist. Through them we can know exactly what we want before we go to buy. This is the surest way of securing full value for every dollar you spend.
